

Ahoy there!

Fancy being a pirate? Then this game is for you! You just need someone to call out the commands.

Commands:

|                                                              |                                                                                                            |
|--------------------------------------------------------------|------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| Scrub the Decks                                              | Crouch down and pretend to clean the floor with their hands.                                               |
| Captain's Coming                                             | Salute and shout out "Aye Aye Captain"                                                                     |
| Man Overboard                                                | Lie on backs waving legs and arms in air                                                                   |
| Walk the Plank                                               | Walk in a perfect straight line one foot exactly in front of the other with arms outstretched to the sides |
| Hit the Deck                                                 | Lie down on their stomachs as quickly as possible                                                          |
| Rats on board                                                | Sit on the floor, hugging knees, whilst feet are raised off floor.                                         |
| Climb the rigging                                            | Pretend you're climbing up at ladder.                                                                      |
| "Land Ahoy"with a direction (north, south, east or west) | Walk in the direction called with hand's cupped just above their eyebrow's (looking for the land ahead).   |
